

Strengthening Local Players: Head of Construction at P3 Kubín Joins Logport as Managing Director

Prague, February 24, 2026 – Experienced development manager Tomáš Kubín, one of the key figures in the Czech and Central European logistics real estate market, is leaving P3 Logistic Parks after 17 years. He will continue his professional career with Czech developer Logport, where he will take on the role of Managing Director for the Czech Republic. This move of a prominent industry figure highlights the dynamic nature of the local development market and Logport’s strategic ambitions.

Tomáš Kubín is among the most experienced experts in the field of logistics and industrial development across Central and Eastern Europe. He joined P3 in 2008 and progressed through a number of positions, ultimately leading the construction department for Western Europe and Central & Eastern Europe. He played a key role in expanding P3’s portfolio in the Czech Republic and neighboring countries, with a strong focus on quality, efficiency, and sustainability. Under his leadership, numerous high-tech logistics and industrial facilities tailored to the needs of modern tenants were delivered.

His move to Logport represents more than just a change of employer. It symbolizes the growing attractiveness and ambitions of local developers, who are increasingly becoming strong competitors to multinational giants. Logport specializes in the development of value-added commercial real estate, particularly in creating multifunctional urban zones that integrate logistics, manufacturing, offices, and services. Kubín sees this integrated approach as a key trend for the future.

“After 17 years at P3, which gave me invaluable experience and the opportunity to contribute to building one of Europe’s industry leaders, the time has come for a new challenge. Logport appealed to me with its clear vision: to create smart and sustainable places that are not only efficient but also harmoniously integrated into cities and their surroundings. The rapidly evolving market, increasing demands on urban planning, and the need to respond flexibly to tenant requirements convinced me that this is where I can best apply my experience from large-scale development projects and contribute to the growth of a dynamic Czech company,” says Tomáš Kubín.

For Logport, the arrival of Tomáš Kubín represents a strategic strengthening of its top management. His deep market knowledge, proven leadership skills, and extensive network of contacts will be invaluable for further expansion and the delivery of complex projects.

“We are very proud that Tomáš Kubín has chosen to entrust his next professional chapter to us. His reputation, know-how, and ability to deliver demanding projects are exactly what Logport needs for its growth plans. We aim to become a leader in the development of modern urban infrastructure, and I believe that under Tomáš's leadership, our projects will gain a new dimension and move to a global level," said David Vais, CEO of Logport.
